Writing Section

I learned about the importance of having respect for other cultures through a cultural festival at a school in London. The festival is held in July every year. I performed a Bon Dance with my Japanese friends, and the audience responded with a loud round of applause after our performance. I also watched many other dances there. In particular, the Haka dance from New Zealand was very interesting. Their performance was very strong and powerful. This experience helped me to learn that respecting each other plays an important role in maintaining relationships between people from other countries.
